CURVY Fashions

What's Fun, Flirty and Fabulous? by: Vanessa Bracetty

One Shoulder Pieces, everyone is wearing them. This style is good for the red carpet, for the Grammys, for work, and even for a night out to dinner with friends and family.

When wearing this garment you want to make sure it looks good and does not give off the wrong impression. This would also apply in general, to what you choose to wear on a day to day basis.

You want it to fit comfortably, not tight, and you definitely would want to wear a strapless bra with this piece.

You can also add a belt to make it more detailed, or just keep it simple. You can wear it above the knees or below the ankles.

One shoulder pieces are far from new as their heritage dates back to the toga days of ancient Greece. Whilst the one-shouldered goddess gown still makes headlines on the red carpet. Its sassy style has every designer filling up there runway.

One-shoulder dresses also take on elements of the cut-out trend, space-age dresses which reveal more flesh. Have fun with it!!!!

Shoes Shoes and More Shoes by: Vanessa Bracetty

What woman does not love a great pair of fashionable comfortable pumps? Majority of the time it is hard to find that size 10 wide with or that size 11 and 12, try bakersshoes.com.

Selected shoes come up to size 11. Trust me I was shocked myself but very excited at the same time. In stores the biggest size is a 10 so ladies unfortunately we do have to shop for them online. Hey, at least they are available.

Fitness State of Mind (The First Step to Good Health) by: Schynthia Johnson

Allow me to introduce myself as a dancer/choreographer and fitness guru. I also worked as a group exercise instructor and recently Zumba instructor. Due to my many years of experience I have gained a bit of knowledge along the way. However, like many women in America I am battling obesity and overall good health. My issue is not knowing what to do but having the will power to follow through.

Why is this? I like to say life plays a part in my current state. It is the lack of time due to job obligations or being drained after dealing with the stresses of the day. As time passes you find yourself in a state of apathy, a state of fatigue, and even a state of depression because you have no motivation to do what you know is good for your mind, body and spirit. What is your state of mind? This is the all-important question. Do not allow your mind time to conjure up excuses or dwell on feelings of complacency. Let's be clear this is a change of lifestyle; therefore, your state of mind must adjust to support your decision for change. So, I am packing my bags and moving to a new state and I invite you to come along with me. Why not try an alternative to the usual mundane aerobic classes. Zumba is the newest craze in fitness. What is Zumba? Well, it is a fusion of Latin and Hip-Hop movement that creates an exciting fitness program that will take your mind off the workout and place it more on the fun. The goal is simple: to create a calorie burning workout that is also fun to do. The routines incorporate fast and slow rhythms with resistance training to tone and sculpt your body while burning fat. With the addition of the Latin and Hip Hop flavor you have got yourself an international Zumba Workout Party and if you continue on this journey with me you will find out about more exciting dance routines that get you moving and losing!

So You Want to Be A Plus-Sized Model?

by: Afiong Ekong

I have been “plus-sized” for my entire adult life. My experience is similar to thousands of women – I have always been the “You have such a pretty face, but....” For many years, I was bothered by this characterization because when I was growing up, the world did not acknowledge “plus-sized” women.

Of course, all women dream of being something “beautiful,” i.e. singer, movie star, model, etc. I had the same dream, but I never shared my dream with anyone. I kept it buried inside, not wanting to be ridiculed or embarrassed. I allowed my size and my own fears to darken my dream. I had very low self-esteem. I didn't appreciate or value my strengths.

As a young adult, people kept asking me if I was a model. I quickly would say no, so people would not focus on my size. After Hurricane Katrina, it was clear to me that I had to start living my life/dreams because tomorrow is not promised. I could no longer wait on “someday.” I decided that I would no longer deny my dream of being a model.

March Issue

STEP ONE:

The first step to become a successful model is to clearly define WHY you want to become a model. The industry is not easy or friendly – especially for plus-sized models. You need to be sure that your decision is deeply and firmly rooted and more than a whim. What is your mission? What is your motivation? What will sustain your model dreams when the going gets tough?

“My experience is similar to thousands of women – I have always been the “You have such a pretty face, but....”

Honoring Alix Desulme by: Miss 'B'

One Chance Entertainment would like to honor those individuals or companies who are doing great deeds in the plus size community. This month the honor goes to none other than Alix Desulme. Alix has been one of the biggest sponsors for OCE and continues to help out in any way he can. Below is the featured interview with Mr. Desulme.

Miss 'B': What is it that your company does?

Alix: Alix Desulme & Associates, Inc. (ADA) is a Direct Street Marketing and Public Relations Firm that specializes in reaching African-American, Haitian-Americans, and Caribbean consumers where they work, live, worship, and play. Incorporated in 1999, we are one of the fastest growing minority-owned direct street marketing firms in North America that focuses on the minority consumer. In addition to ethnic marketing and public relations work, we also conduct market research, product sampling and testing, promotions, name brand awareness campaigns, and political consulting.

Miss 'B': How did you meet Sandy?

Alix: I have known Sandy for many years. Her family and I have worked close on many community projects together over the years.

"I hold the distinction of being the youngest and the first Haitian-American elected City Clerk in the United States of America."

Miss 'B': Why did you want to help Sandy out by sponsoring her?

Alix: I have always been a big supporter of anything positive that young people are doing. I love the concept and I admire her determination.

Miss 'B': What else do you do for the Community and how else do you plan on impacting it?

Alix: On May 12, 2009 in a city-wide election, I was elected City Clerk for the City of North Miami. I am the first Black to serve in this capacity for the City of North Miami. I hold the distinction of being the youngest and the first Haitian-American elected City Clerk in the United States of America.

Miss 'B': How can people contact you?

Alix: They can contact me by visiting www.desulme.com or my personal site www.alixdesulme.com or directly call my office at 305-685-1616.

WANTED CURVES- Model of the Month

After interviewing several beautiful young ladies we chose Ms. Trice Chanelle from Chicago, IL as our feature for this month. Below is the interview our CEO Sandy had with her.

Sandy: How long have you been modeling?

Trice: I have been modeling for about a year and half.

Sandy: Describe three words that describe you?

Trice: I am unique, trendy and innovative.

Sandy: What do you do for fun?

Trice: WHEN I want to have fun I go out and dance my A OFF! Dancing for me takes the stress away.

Sandy? How do you plan on impacting the plus-size community?

Trice: My Mission that I will accomplish will impact the CURVY community. It has to start with me launching my line called TRICE CHANELLE COLLECTION. It's for women all shapes and sizes 0-28. I have a vision and a dream; I know God gave me this passion for fashion. He knew I could make a difference in how plus size women are betrayed in High Fashion. I will help ALL women across the world to feel beautiful no matter what size they are. I look at fashion as art; that's just what it is: ART! Art has no shape, no size nor color. It's free to be whatever it wants to be and feel. That's how plus-sized fashion should be looked at. With my line, curvy women will be 100% satisfied. With TRICE CHANELLE COLLECTION Bold is Beautiful!
